OPINIONS OF OTHER EDITORS.

THEY HAD BETTER GET OUT.

They Press.

The Republicans laughed at a good deal about what they were going to do at the Baltimore election. They did so little that it is obvious that if they can't do something else better than carry elections, they ought to get out of business.

THE LOCK-JAW MICROBE.

Paris Mail.

According to the theory of Dr. Verneuil, a member of the French Academy of Sciences, tetanus, popularly known as lock-jaw, is a contagious disease, caused by microbe. Prof. Noard, of the Alfort Veterinary School, has demonstrated the transmissibility of the disease by inoculation, and also by contagion from the horse to man.

TRUE LABOR CANDIDATES.

Albany Evening Union.

Frederick Cook and Lawrence J. Fitzgerald, candidates for Secretary of State and State Treasurer on the Democratic State ticket, respectively, pay out annually in wages over $1,000,000 to laboring men in their employ. Might we be permitted to ask what Colonel Grant, Henry George and Carmichael are doing in that line?

TYPHOID FEVER.

Requiere.

All fevers, in protracted cases, may assume typhoid symptoms; but the real typhoid fever is a thing apart from this. It is rarely, very rarely, seen without the accompaniments of distended and tympanic bowels and the characteristic eruption upon the upper part of the bowels. These features are not always present, but they are so generally so as to be called distinctive. Much malaria fever is, just now, being improperly diagnosed as typhoid.

A VETERAN'S OPINION.

Boston Herald.

Allen G. Thurman says a cordial word for the President in the Ohio campaign. This testimony, as coming from one whose age places him beyond ambition, and who has not received, perhaps, the favors that he might have expected at the hands of Mr. Cleveland, is of more than ordinary value. Had the President called Mr. Thurman to his Cabinet, instead of Senator Garland, he would have made that body a stronger one. Perhaps he sees it now himself.

MRS. CLEVELAND GROWING ROTUND.

Boston Traveler's Washington Letter.

By the way, a little horseback exercise would do Mrs. Cleveland no harm. It is rather a hateful thing to say, but I am going to tell the truth at all events—Mrs. Cleveland is growing fat. She is no longer the willowy, girlish White House bride, but a solid 170-pounder of the settled married woman type. The gushers who spent about the President's school-girl wife will have to revise their opinions if they are desirous of stating the truth. The change in Mrs. Cleveland's figure has added to her beauty, and she never looked as well in her life as she does today.

A LOOK OF DECEIT.

Requiere.

In 1872, one Horace Greeley, candidate for the Presidency of the United States, and who, in his capacity as journalist, had probably written more bitterly about the South than any other of our distinguished men, passed down toward the Gulf delivering a series of speeches in behalf of his own cause. Everywhere he was received with great courtesy and listened to attentively and with respect. That was at a period when the war was still prevalent. Now a quarter of a century has intervened. But when Southern speakers come to us they seem to be blackguarded by a partisan press. Is that there is no decency north of Mason and Dixon's line?

OGLESBY'S BLOODHOUND RANCH.

Waco Echo.

George Oglesby is growing bloodhounds for sale on Tenth and Clay streets. He has already the finest kennel of the breed in the United States. Increasing frequency of acts of violence and multiplied instances of train and stage robberies causes a demand for the class of animals named, which encourages Mr. Oglesby to hope if the noble work may proceed he may find his dog ranch a better thing than an African ostrich farm. Mr. Oglesby is certain that if the Six-shooter law is repealed occasion for the use of his acute-nosed dogs will become so frequent that he will have to open on a much larger scale.

GOOD FOR THE STAR.

Middleburgh Gazette.

The New York Star, the only Democratic journal in the city, deserves great credit for the successful fight it is making against the dictation of the renegade Pulitizer of the World, a sheet that is a worthy ally of the Republican party at all times. The Star so successfully led public sentiment to nominate the brilliant and capable John R. Fellows, for District Attorney, when the rabble, headed by the World that had for weeks been intimidating both judge and jury, demanded the selection of young Nicoll. If the World had not been for him, the latter would have been nominated, as he is capable and popular, but the friendship of the World was fatal, the people believing that no paper should assume the roll of Imperial Dictator, especially where any American citizen is thereby liable to be deprived of the rights guaranteed him by the Constitution.

A FOOLISH FISCAL ESCAPE.

Courier-Journal.

Six national banks of New York are getting free of interest $6,600,000 of the people's dearly won tax money from the Treasury at Washington. They probably put up 4 per cent. governments against this, on which they draw $264,000 interest per annum while on deposit, including the reserve, which is become a matter of option, the $6,600,000 free loan of the Treasury, at 7 per cent. pays $462,000 on top of the legitimate interest of $264,000, to which alone they acquired title by the Government when they issued the 4s. Here is $726,000 of interest on $7,500,000, or 9.6 per cent. investment conferred where a 3.1 per cent. interest is paid for! The talk of the interested defenders of this stunning finance, about the gradual disappearance of the bond premium being a proper and necessary offset in collecting the profit of the deal, is the boldest of the boshy. The fact is, the scheme is rapidly increasing, the premium having added 23 per cent. to the value of the fixed investment in two weeks. It is also as plain as a church-steeples, that if the system be allowed by Congress to continue, and if ten years be taken from the life of the bond by that lapse of time, such a preposterous interest on such a perfect security would leave the premium as high as it is now in 1897, or higher.

The Danville Deaf Mute gives this gentle warning: "Snack thieves raided our garden and carried off about three hundred head of cabbages. Somebody is going to cross the Jordan pretty soon, if this thing is kept up much longer."

We understand that Messrs. H. C. Kauffman and W. H. Kinnaird, Jr., of Lancaster, and John and Malcolm Weisiger, of this place, on their recent visit to the West invested about twelve thousand dollars in Kansas City lots.—Danville Advocate.

Counterfeit postal cards have been discovered at Pittsburg, Pa., that are so faithfully executed that their detection is very difficult. This is the first attempt to put spurious postal cards in circulation. It is thought they come from New York.

It is stated that a company is being organized in Boston to transport the mails between the post-office and the railroad stations by means of "Telpherage," or cars running on elevated cables by electricity. Each car will carry a ton weight of mail matter.

F. L. Harper, of Fidelity Bank notoriety, has been removed from the Dayton jail to that at Cincinnati for more convenient confinement with his attorneys, who are arranging for his trial, which is set for November 29. His bail is fixed at $200,000, which he has not been able to give.

J. E. Smith, the express messenger who recently killed two train robbers near El Paso has been paid $2,000 by order of Gov. Ross, as a reward for his act. Smith will probably get $2,000 more from the express company, and $1,000 from the railroad company, making a total of $5,000.

Gray is the color of fully half of the French dresses imported this season, and it is invariably combined with white. Many of them are plaid, a gray ground with large diamond plaids of fine white lines. Much of the gray is trimmed with silver, and many walking-jackets are of smooth-faced, heavy dove-colored cloth, thickly braided with round silver braid.

Chas. Bareford, a traveling salesman from Louisville, suffered himself to be put off the train between Lexington and Winchester a few nights ago, because of refusing to pay 10 cents additional fare on account of not having purchased a ticket, and will now bring suit for damages and will make a general test case of that matter for the State. It will be watched with much interest.—Kentucky Gazette.

Gas was struck at New Hope in the well of the Falls City natural Gas Company. There is about forty pounds pressure. Drilling will be continued, however, and deeper gas is expected at two other levels. This company does not intend to boom its stock, resting assured that they will soon have a gusher. This is authentic, coming as it does from T. P. Benjamin, the President of the company.

The erection of a temporary building, capable of seating 5,000 persons, has been agreed upon for the Moody meetings in this city. The building will be located on the vacant lot belonging to the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, on Broadway, below Fourth avenue, and it is supposed will be ready for occupancy by January 1, 1888, which date Mr. Moody is expected. The series of meetings will continue for one month.—Courier-Journal.

General Grant's youngest son, Jesse R. Grant, has started to California to look after certain mining properties in which he has become interested through Julius Lezynsky. Mr. Lezynsky is a Pole, who has made money in Pacific coast speculations. He accompanies Mr. Grant on his Western trip. Within the last half year Messrs. Lezynsky and Grant have bought out five California gold mines and placed them on the market in some shape or other.—New York World.

In the latter part of August a dog belonging to Mit Embury, bit a hog at Mike Retherford's. His little son Hugh went to drive him off and he was also bitten. The dog, supposed to be mad, was killed. About two weeks ago the hog, after showing every sign of hydrophobia, died, and Saturday night the boy also died, after terrible suffering, from the same horrible affliction. The corpse was a most unnatural one in appearance. Twenty-four hours after death what looked like perspiration poured from every pore and there were other strange features connected with it.—Interior-Journal.

The Presbytery of Bloomington, has a small-sized elephant on its hands. There is a church at Sidney, Illinois, composed entirely of women. They raised the money to build a neat little chapel and dedicated it free from debt. But there were no male members to hold the offices, and so no officers have been chosen. A committee recently appointed by the Presbytery is now endeavoring to complete the organization by electing elders. The question at issue appears to be whether they can hustle up some male members or will have to disregard all custom and precedent by letting the women take the places they have so abundantly earned.

YALE FELLOWS WELL MET.

The annual meeting of the Yale Alumni of Kentucky and the adjoining section was held at the Pendennis Club, Louisville, one night last week and was one of the jolliest gatherings ever assembled there. Fourteen alumni were present, and registered: Cassius M. Clay, Jr., class of '66; John Mason Brown, class of '66; J. Stoddard Johnston, class of '68; Hon. Curtis F. Burnam, class of '69; Charles T. Ballard, class of '78; W. R. Belknap, class of '77; R. P. Halleck, class of '81; George W. Norton, Jr., class of '85, and William Jarvis, class of '85.

At 8 o'clock, after the members had spent some time in social intercourse, reviewing the more vivid reminiscences of their boyhood days at old Yale, dinner was announced. In one of the large parlors on the second floor, which had been transformed into a banquet hall, an elegant service was set. The menu was ample, and comprised blue points, consommé, a la royale, fillet de poisson blanc, Sauté de Venaison roti, with sauce vin de port, Cailles roti, and Potatoes au gratin. The menu was interpreted by such seductive beverages as Haut Sauterne, Amontillado, Vin de Graves, St. Julien, Dubouche's Vin Blanc, and old cognac.

After a hearty consideration of the menu, Col. John Mason Brown, President of the Alumni, announced that the toasts were in order, and he himself answered the sentiment, "Our Alumni Association."

Col. Brown, when he had concluded, introduced Hon. Curtis F. Burnam, the oldest graduate, from the class of '40, who responded to the toast, "The Achievement of Yale." Mr. Burnam said that he was totally unprepared to fulfill the duty assigned him, and begged to be allowed to name a few graduates of the old school, who stood best themselves as examples of Yale's achievements. He cited incidents of the lives of Hon. Samuel J. Tilden, S. F. B. Morse, Lyman Beecher, Hon. Thomas Marshall, and concluded by describing his first day Yale, when he was introduced to the faculty by Chief Justice Waite, who was then a freshman, and who took a lively interest in his welfare while at school.

The toasts "Education and Success," by Mr. W. R. Belknap; "Dinners and Dinners," Hon. J. Stoddard Johnston; "What Educated Men Owe the Community," Prof. R. P. Halleck, and "Young Yale," by Mr. William Jarvis, were all happily responded to, and in the interval between each response selections from the Yale Glee Song were given with a vim and enthusiasm seldom seen outside of an alumni gathering.
